POPULAR LOCAL BOY FATALLY INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

As the result of an automobile accident last Tuesday evening, Thomas Yates, one of the most popular young men of Daly City, was fatally injured.

The accident happened near Beresford when the machine in which he was a passenger was crashed into from the rear and he was thrown through the windshield, sustaining injuries which resulted in his death at midnight Wednesday. Immediately following the accident, the unfortunate young man was taken to the hospital, where everything possible was done for him, but without avail.

The driver of the car, Henry Thomas, of Bellevue avenue, and Frank Dubits, a passenger, escaped from the crash with minor injuries.

Thomas Yates, who was lovingly called "Tommy" by his many friends, was 19 years of age last August, and the son of Mrs. Ellen Yates, of 140 Los Olivos avenue. For several years he had been employed at the White House, San Francisco, and as a result of his strict attention to business and his pleasing personality had been advanced to the post of assistant cashier. He was a member of Crocker Chapter, Order of De Molay, and a Past Master Councilor of the Chapter.

Thomas Yates was one of the most highly respected and beloved young men of Daly City, and his tragic passing will be sincerely mourned by a host of friends.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon at the mortuary chapel of W. C. Lasswell & Co. Crocker Chapter, Order of De Molay, will be in charge of the services. Interment will be at Woodlawn cemetery.

ENTERTAINS CHILDREN AT VALENTINE PARTY

Mrs. H. O'Connor entertained a number of children at a Valentine party at her home on Evergreen avenue, Wednesday afternoon, February 15, in honor of her little goddaughter's tenth birthday. The afternoon was spent in games and fancy folk dances and songs. By special request Alice Johnson, who was the guest of honor, received birthday greetings over the radio.

The dining room was artistically decorated in red and white. In the center of the table was a large birthday cake with white frosting and red candles, also a centerpiece of red and white carnations and asparagus fern, and a large Colonial electric doll lamp dressed in red and white silk, which caught the eye of all the kiddies. The table favors were also in red and white. Alice received many useful gifts from her friends.

Among those present were: Margaret Kohman, Frances Friske, Alice Johnson, Joan Tway, Dorothy Lewis, Dorothy Fricke, Ellen Peterson, Ella Simpson, Patrica Pritchard, Dorothy McKeon, Teddy Johnson, Harold Fricke, Ruby Sutton, Pal Fricke, Lillian Krown and Georgia Brettos.

Mrs. S. Fricke helped to entertain the children. "The Big Tin Pan Parade" was sung over the radio, and all the children joined in the singing, as it is one of their school songs.

ST. MAXIMUS PARISH NOTES

Last week we announced the program of the St. Patrick's entertainment and dance to be held on Saturday night, March 17, in the Daly City Auditorium. In announcing this program we feel that we have secured the highest class of entertainment possible for the occasion. The numbers offer a variety of appeal. The story of Ireland and St. Patrick is told in song and dance; the laughter of Ireland is heard in anecdote and character sketch. An enthusiastic committee is working hard to make this a never to be forgoten evening.

The season of Lent began last Wednesday with appropriate services in the church. During this season the order of services will be as follows: Daily Masses at 7 and 9 a. m.; Rosary and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, Sunday 8 p. m.; Rosary, Instruction of the Sacraments and Benediction, Wednesday 8 p. m.; Way of the Cross and Benediction, Friday 8 p. m; Way of the Cross for children, Thursday 4 p. m.

Miss Ada May Johnston, a popular young lady of the parish, was married last Sunday night to Mr. John Arthur Saunders, with a very pretty wedding.

Enjoy Visit to Yosemite

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Kennedy and family, of Mission street, and Mrs. W. Popine motored with a party of friends to Yosemite last week end. They took part in all the winter sports there and report having had a wonderful time.

ASSOCIATED FIREMEN IN MONTHLY MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Associated Firemen of San Mateo County was held in the City Hall at Redwood City last Tuesday evening. President Rodenberger, of Daly City, called the meeting to order at 8:30.

Mayor H. A. Beeger was introduced by Chief Ryan of the Redwood City company. The mayor in a few well chosen words extended a hearty welcome to the firemen of the county and expressed the hope that the association meeting would be held in Redwood City oftener.

In addition to the regular routine business there were many important matters presented to the members for consideration.

After the business meeting the comrades were invited to the fire house, where the Redwood City boys had prepared a great spread. At the table were seated 160 firemen, from all parts of San Mateo county. Among the invited guests at the table were Mayor Beeger of Redwood City, J. W. Stevens, state fire marshal, Hon. Harry Parkman, assemblyman of this district, Frank Agnew, of the Board of Underwriters, Les Reeder, editor of the Pacific Coast Fire Chief, Ken Smith of the Firemen's Fund Insurance Co., Fred Drake, of San Carlos, and John H. Schively, chaplain of the Pacific Coast Fire Chief's Assocation.

Short talks were made by Jay Stevens, Les Reeder, Fred Drake and Hon. H. Parkman. J. H. Schively was the guest speaker of the evening.

The meeting was enjoyed by all and was pronounced a great success. The next regular meeting will be held at Bay Shore City on March 20.

UNIQUE SERVICE AT M. E. CHURCH

A vital question that is foremost in the minds of people everywhere today will be discussed at the Daly City Methodist church, next Sunday evening, by a few of the outstanding men of the town. The subject will be, "What Does the Community Expect of the Church."

A ten minute talk will be given by three men, Mr. A. L. Stockton, of the Stockton Lumber Company, of this city, and city treasurer; Mr. Arthur MacLean, of Crocker Lodge, F. & A. M., and Mr. James Ferguson, principal of Jefferson Union high school. It will be a unique and interesting service.

We are also fortunate in having secured the services of Stella Cannegieter, a violinist who comes to us very highly recommended.

Mrs. I. Bennett will sing a special solo, and Prof. T. Eugene Goudey will play for the entire service. You simply can't afford to miss it. Don't forget the hour, 8 o'clock.

Sunday morning at 11 o'clock the pastor will begin a series of pre-Easter services. The first subject in the series will be "Choked Channels." It will help you spiritually if you will make it a point to be present during this series of pre-Easter sermons, dealing directly with the important phases of life.

The Epworth League began last week the study of a most interesting and constructive book by E. Stanley Jones, "The Christ of the Indian Road." All of the young people of the community are invited to participate in the activities of this organization.

The Sunday school is doing a splendid piece of work, and is looking forward to the largest enrollment in its history. We need you to help us put it over.

ELLIOTT L. FISHER, Pastor.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION AT CHURCH

Washington's birthday was celebrated at the Daly City Methodist hurch, Wednesday evening, by a most enthusiastic audience. Dinner was served at 6:30 by the Ladies' Aid Society, followed by interesting and instructive addresses upon the life and character of George Washington by W. J. Savage, district superintendent of schools, and Mr. James Ferguson, principal of Jefferson Union high school. The dinner was splendidly served by the ladies, and the tables were decorated in appropriate colors.

FRED JUNKER CELEBRATES EIGHTEENTH BIRTHDAY

A birthday party was given last Saturday evening in honor of Fred Junker, of 149 Miriam street, who celebrated his eighteenth birthday. A delightful evening was spent playing games and dancing, after which dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Junker.

Those present were: Misses Frances Stark, Edna O'Brien, Sophie Peterson, Lillian Kelly and Marie Junker; Messrs. John Junker, Harry Elmers, Leo Frances, George Draper and George Eisenhut.

LOOKING BACK, BUT MOVING FORWARD

In turning over the pages of the past, one is more than astounded at the rapid development that has taken place in Daly City during the last five years. There was a time when Daly City was considered to be nothing more or less than a camping ground for the sufferers of the great fire in San Francisco. But what do we find today on this so-called camping ground, this spot where land could be bought for a mere song, and remember speculation was not so keen as it is today.

Here we have a thriving city with an ever increasing population, situated within a few minutes ride of San Francisco, the beach and other places of interest, with a splendid street car service, with churches and schools under the supervision of splendid instructors, and a civic administration that has overcome every obstacle that has stood in the way of advancement for our fair city.

Under all these splendid conditions we may well feel proud. Each day witnesses more and more improvements. We have splendidly paved streets, hundreds of new homes have been erected and many more are under construction, with plans laid for still more, and it is predicted that the building activity during the coming summer will surpass all previous records.

Daly City's water system is acknowledged to be the very best in the state, and the water itself is so wholesome and pure that the Daly City resident has just cause to be proud of this civic asset. Not only is it pure and wholesome, but its force is so pronounced that it is of great assistance in preventing disastrous fires. This, along with our volunteer fire department, which has rendered great service to the community in the past, is an asset of incalculable worth to this city.

Recently we witnessed the auspicious opening of a magnificent new market. The success of this market is assured by the attitude of the people of the district, whose motto should be: "Shop and Save in Daly City."

Work has begun on the new theatre to be erected at the corner of Mission and Flournoy streets. When completed, this Daly City amusement palace will present the best in pictures and vaudeville. It will have a seating capacity of 1,200, and will be a place of which every citizen may be proud.

In fact there is so much to be proud of in our fast growing district that we may hold our heads high and say: "Daly City is a good place to live."

All this section needs is a continuation of the present steady growth to become one of the largest and best residential as well as shopping districts on the peninsula. So why go down town to do your shopping. Keep your money here and help build up your own town.

There is a great future for Daly City, but it is up to us to boost and let the outside world know what we already know, that "Daly City is a good place to live." So let's all get together and sing the following song and make this a banner year in our history.

This is the town I call my town;
Where peace and prosperity reign,
Where we get our share of the sunshine,
As well as the fog and rain.
It's a place that we all should be proud of,
So let's all join in and sing:
Daly City, our own town,
Where prosperity's here to remain.

CHORUS

Come, let us join in and sing,
With all our might and main.
We'll lead them in the race—
They'll find this the only place
To come and settle down.
And in the years to come
You'll find them knocking at our door;
They'll come with the dollars,
And you'll hear them all holler:
Daly City is a grand old town.

GUEST AT DINNER IN HONOR OF BIRTHDAY

A surprise dinner was given last Sunday at the home of Mrs. Margaret Fahy, 613 Bellevue avenue, in honor of her birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Fahy invited Mrs. M. Fahy for a motor ride down the peninsula in the morning, and upon their return found a jolly crowd of friends awaiting them, much to Mrs. Fahy's surprise.

Upon entering the dining room, a table well laden with good things to eat and beautifully decorated met their eyes. The center of attraction was the large birthday cake with its candles, each on a silver dollar, and one for each year.

Those present to wish the guest of honor a happy birthday were: Mr. and Mrs. Wm. G. Fahy, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Fahy, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fahy, Mr. and Mrs. F. Doherty, Mr. and Mrs. A. Linderer, Mr. and Mrs. S. Falbo, Mr. and Mrs. H. Bergh, Mrs. Renault, Mrs. E. Kottinger; Misses Margaret Fahy, Elsie Fahy and Genevive Hale; Messrs. Philip Fahy, Clarence Fahy, Wm. Fahy, Jr., Gene Fahy, Master R. Fahy, Jr., and Philip Fahy.

SPLENDID ATTRACTIONS AT THE STATE THEATRE

The State Theatre has booked an unusual number of worth while attractions for the following week. Tomorrow (Saturday) "The Great Mail Robbery" and "Risky Business" will be the feature pictures. On Sunday, February 26, Tom Mix in "The Canyon of Light" and Nancy Nash in "Upstream," with the opening chapter of "The Masked Menace." Monday and Tuesday, February 27 and 28, Norma Talmadge in "Camille." Wednesday and Thursday, February 29 and March 1, Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton in "Now We're in the Air." Friday, March 2, Harrison Ford and Phyllis Haver in "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," and special stage attractions.

ANNOUNCE BETROTHAL

A shower was given in honor of the betrothal of the Rev. Elliott L. Fisher to Miss Margaret Darraugh, on Monday evening, at the home of Mrs. F. Darraugh, 452 Santa Barbara avenue. Many of the old time friends from Canada were present. Miss Darraugh was the recipient of many beautiful gifts.

SCHOOL'S OFFICIALS BLAMED FOR DEFICIT

W. L. Glascock, superintendent of the San Mateo Union high school district, has tendered his resignation, to take effect upon the appointment of his successor, and his resignation has been accepted by the board of trustees. This action followed demands of citizens of San Mateo and Burlingame.

Frank H. Thrall, city clerk of the board of trustees, is reported to have mailed his resignation to County Superintendent of Schools Pansy J. J. Abbott, at Redwood City. Miss Abbott has announced that the resignation will be accepted as soon as received.

That the resignation of Glascock and the reported resignation of Thrall will satisfy the citizens of the district, and that the special election to make up the $84,000 deficit in school funds will be sucessful, is the belief expressed by the members of the board of trustees. The election will be held February 27, as scheduled.

The resignation of Superintendent Glascock followed a demand by a citizens' commitee that both he and Thrall be removed from office. This demand came at the close of a two weeks' investigation of the $84,000 deficit in the school funds, and the report was signed by the representatives of eight of the nine civic organizations represented on the investigating committee. The committee's 27-page report, bristling with accusations, depicted Glascock as a "dictator" to the board of trustees.

Thrall, who conducts an electrical business, is accused of having sold $12,000 worth of fixtures to the high school, despite provisions in the political code forbiding an official to accept contracts from the board to which he is attached.

The committee recommended voting by the people of a special school tax to make up the $84,000 deficit. If this is not done, and the schools are forced to close, their report pointed out, the district will forfeit its $44,000 allotment from the state school fund.

PENINSULA POLICE OFFICERS COMPLETE PLANS FOR DANCE

At the last regular meeting of the Peninsula Police Officers' Association of the State of California, held in Daly City, the members devoted considerable of their time to perfecting plans for their dance, to be given on April 14, at Pacific City, for the benefit of the widow's and orphan's fund of the association.

This association is composed of police officers of the peninsula district, Daly City being represented in its membership.

The members of the association, in addition to deriving great benefit from the discussion of their different problems during their meetings, are endeavoring to build up a fund for the aid of widows and orphans, in case such aid should be necessary.

Preparations are being made by the committee in chage for one of the largest crowds ever assembled at Pacific City. They have contracted for high class dance music, will have the dance hall decorated in a splendid manner, and will provide parking space for the thousands of cars expected.

Mountain View has been selected as the next meeting place of the association, when final and complete arrangements for the dance on April 14 will be perfected.

ST. VALENTINE PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. J. Elliott, of 183 Oliver street, entertained a number of their relatives and friends at a Valentine party at their home last Saturday night. The parlor was beautifully decorated for the occasion with red and white crepe paper. Cupids and hearts were in evidence everywhere. Bagala brothers furnished the music for dancing, and at midnight a very tempting luncheon was served by the hostess. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Day, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hadgkinsons, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Reugg, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Ecklund, Mr. and Mrs. W. Vinkey, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Titcomb, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mackey, Mrs. N. Schneider; Misses Daisy Elliott, Florence Elliott, Margaret Burgess, L. Beckwith, S. Erickson, M. Munsen; Messrs. Wm. Laird, J. Marcoth, Wm. Strochecker, E. Erickson, T. Jenson, A. Anderson, G. Preston, T. Rerhem and David Burgess.

Took Part in Circus

Chester Jones, Jr., of Templeton avenue, was one of the participants in the circus given by the South San Francisco high school Friday evening of last week. The affair proved a huge success.

SUPERVISORS ORDER FORMATION OF NEW SANITARY DISTRICT

The San Mateo county board of supervisors, at their session in Redwood City last Monday, ordered the formation of the Millbrae sanitary district, the plans and specifications for the work as presented by Attorney Albert Mansfield being approved. This action was taken by the board when it was found that no written or verbal protests had been made on the formation of this district.

A claim for $5,139.88, covering the final payment to the Western Paving Company for the construction of Princeton road in the Fourth township, was approved.

The bid of the Superior Laundry Company of South San Francisco to handle the laundry of the Community hospital, at Beresford, was accepted by the board. The bid was the lowest of six submitted and will result in a saving of more than $100 a month. The Superior Laundry will do the work for $300.40 a month, and if their work is satisfactory they will be granted a contract for one year, the board decided.

Attorney Edmund Scott presented the returns of the election for Sequoia Union high school district, showing that proposition No 1 was defeated, and proposition No. 2 carried. The bids for the sale of $250,000 bonds voted recently will be opened on March 12.

Steps were taken by the supervisors toward the formation of the Belmont fire district, a protection that is needed while an appeal is pending in the California Supreme Court on the judgment of Superior Judge J. L. Hudner, whose decision, recently given, disincorporated the city.

District Attorney Swart informed the members of the board that their action in forming the district would be invalid if the judge's decision were reversed, and that taxes would be illegal. These taxes, if paid under protest, could be recovered, providing they were not spent before the Supreme Court hands down its decision. In that event, a lot of confusion would result, Swart said.

When it was shown that the board would not become liable for the debts, one way or the other, a motion prevailed ordering the formation of the district. Papers will be prepared and presented at the March 12 meeting of the board, when it is expected the district will be formed.

An application for a soft drink parlor on Crystal Mountain, at the intersection of the new Skyline boulevard, was rejected on the ground that "the board did not want to see the Skyline boulevard littered with soft drink parlors."

INTERESTING ADDRESS AT GRACE CHURCH

Reports tell us that Prof. James Ferguson did himself proud last Sunday evening in his address to the young people of Grace Presbyterian church and the community. His subject was "What the Young People Owe to Themselves," and the many words of appreciation that come is evidence that Prof. Ferguson brought many helpful lessons to the splendid audience, as the house was filled. A fine program of music was also given, and the interest growing out of the contest in the Young People Society is proving a great stimulus in building the program for the night services.

"A Happy Sunday Night" is the theme for the evening of February 26. A splendid program is being provided and we ask all to continue to boost for the cause of righteousness.

Rev. and Mrs. Gatchell returned Tuesday for the southern part of the state, where Mr. Gatchell was called in special meetings. While there, Mr. and Mrs. Gatchell were permitted to spend a day visiting old friends in Los Angeles and Pasadena. They were glad to get back to friends and home again.

The annual congregational dinner and election of officers will be held at the church on Thursday evening, March 1, and a good dinner and program is now being prepared for the occasion. Tickets are being distributed and we hope all will avail themselves of this get-together meeting.

The Ladies of the Guild will hold their meeting on Wednesday of next week for the election of officers for the coming year and get all in readiness for the banquet dinner on Thursday evening.

On Tuesday night the members of the Christian Endeavor Society will hold a reception at the church for the C. E. Society of Ocean Avenue Presbyterian church. A short play will be given, after which luncheon will be served and a general good time will be enjoyed.

CHAS. H. GATCHELL, Minister.

FEDERAL INCOME TAX ON YOUR CAR

Motorists should bear in mind that there are a number of allowable deductions from income that may be made in cor ection with car ownership and operation at the time that federal income tax reports are being filed.

Some of these deductions and a few expenses that are not deductibe have been listed by George E. Sandford, general attorney for the California State Automobile Association.

According to Sandford, a recent Federal Court decision has resulted in a ruling by the board of tax appeals that a proper tax reduction is the loss sustained by reason of damage to an automobile while being used for business or pleasure. This is a new principle so far as the pleasure use is concerned, Sandford pointed out. The ruling was made in the case of W. S. Bronson, which was based on the Federal Court decision in the case of Shearer vs. Anderson.

Motor vehicle registration fees and weight taxes paid the state are deductible. They are in the class of state and local taxes (except taxes assessed against local benefts) which are deductible from gross income.

County personal property taxes paid on motor vehicles are deductible. This applies to personal property taxes on automobiles.

From the standpoint of the business or professional man who uses his automobile either wholly or partially for business purposes, deductions can be made for expense of operation and maintenance, for depreciation, for insurance, etc.

Accounts should be kept and submitted showing their expenses. Where the automobile is used less than 50 per cent for business, the proportionate part is deductible.

The Federal excise tax on new car purchases, commonly known as the war tax on automobiles, is not an allowable deduction, even though this tax may be billed to the purchaser as a separate item.

The state gasoline tax is not deductible by the consumer. It is a tax imposed on the distributor and is deductible by the distributor but not by the consumer. If it is used by the consumer for business purposes, the full cost of gasoline and the tax is a business expense and deductible as such.

ATTEND P. T. A. MEETING

Several of the members of the Woodrow Wilson-Vista Grande P. T. A. attended the district meeting and Founders' day program held at the Peninsula avenue school in San Mateo. Luncheon was enjoyed in the new cafeteria of the school. Those attending from Daly City were: Mesdames J. Brown, F. Rickman, Sherwood, Secor, E. Foss, G. McIsaac, Junker, Denk. Mrs. Taggart and Mrs. Putney of the Jefferson High P. T. A. also attended the meeting.

The home sewing department of the Woodrow Wilson-Vista Grande P. T. A. will meet at the home of Mrs. F. H. Rickman, 421 San Diego avenue, on Thursday afternoon of next week, March 1, to make a baby layet.

FROM AN OLD LETTER

During the Civil war a good lady of Georgia wrote a letter to the Columbus Enquirer, expressing her horror at the customs being introduced by the "modern" women of that day. Extracts from the letter will give its general trend:

"I am a country woman. Have been in your city. I was shocked. I saw—you'll scarcely believe it. I saw—can hardly tell it. I saw women in the streets with their dresses held so high that you could see their underskirts all around. My countrywomen surely will refrain when they are informed that it is a Yankee fashion. Yankee ladies care no more about showing their knees than they do their faces, and if you indulge in this fashion, in ten years you will care no more for showing yours than they do— and in ten years more you will be walking the streets with your faces painted as theirs are now. Oh! be warned in time."

Had the writer of that letter lived until the present day she would have had much to inspire her pen. And possibly would have wound up by bobbing her hair and donning knee length skirts herself.

We wonder if the inhabitants of Mars were sufficiently educated to spell and pronounce the name of that Skjellerup comet.

The proposed temporary convention hall at Houston may answer its purpose, inasmuch as the winters are mild in Texas.

BANKERS WARN FARMERS

Bankers of the South will take the lead in a movement for a reduction of cotton acreage this year, if a plan proposed by Judge C. E. Thomas, Alabama state superintendent of banks, be adopted.

All state banks in Alabama have been requested to advise farmer patrons to exercise caution in cotton planting, pointing out the grave danger which lies in another year of overproduction. Judge Thomas has also asked bank commissioners and superintendents of other cotton states to join in the movement.

While it is not intended to advise a drastic curtailment of production, it will be made plain to planters that some reduction in acreage is highly advisable if prices next fall are to show a profit over the cost of production.

Less cotton acreage, better fertilization and cultivation, with an increase in food and feed crops, present the only safe farming program for 1928 throughout the South. It is well that the bankers are thus early taking the initiative in promoting such a program, and the wise cotton farmer will heed their advice.

Only a truly desperate mouse would seek cover under a skirt these days.

SICK WOMAN SOON RECOVERS

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"A neighbor advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which she said had helped her so much. So I bought a few bottles and tried it out. It sure helped me wonderfully. I felt much better. My work was no longer a dread to me. If I hear of any one who is troubled the way I was, I will gladly recommend the Vegetable Compound to them and I will answer any letters in regard to the same."—Mrs. Bertha Meachan, 1134 N. Penn. Ave., Lansing, Mich.

"I had been sickly ever since I was fifteen years old. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I got so I could do all my housework and I am in good health."—Mrs. Marie K. Williams, Ketchikan, Alaska.

From Michigan to Alaska, from Maine to Oregon and from Connecticut to California letters are continually being written by grateful women recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The Compound is made from roots and herbs and for more than fifty years has been helping to restore run-down, over-worked women to health.

Would'st thou be wretched?
'Tis an easy way:
Think of but self, and self alone all day;
Think of thy pain, thy grief, thy loss, thy care,

Think of thy good, thy pleasures and thy gain,
Think only of thyself, 'twill not be in vain.

VEGETABLE STANDBYS

This is the season when we enjoy the winter vegetables such as squash, rutabaga, onion and carrot. A good dish of well-cooked and seasoned hubbard squash is hard to excel.

Squash Porcupine.—Steam the squash until tender. Scrape out of the shell every part lying near it, as that is of the best flavor. Mash until smooth. To one quart of the squash add one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt, one teaspoonful of sugar, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of ginger and two tablespoonfuls of butter. Beat and reserve one cupful. To the remainder add two tablespoonfuls of cream, beat again and pile into a glass baking dish. Rice the reserved cupful over the top and set in the oven to lightly brown.

Carrot Savory.—Cook until tender one quart of thinly sliced carrots in boiling salted water to which a teaspoonful of sugar has been added. Fry two chopped onions in three tablespoonfuls of butter until light brown, stir in four tablespoonfuls of flour and add two cupfuls of any good stock. Add cayenne and paprika, one teaspoonful each of lemon juice and sugar and salt if needed. Let it boil and pour over the carrots which have been drained and laid on strips of buttered toast.

Scalloped Tomato Surprise.—Cook until soft three large sweet onions. Lay them in the bottom of a baking dish and with a sharp knife divide into quarters, not cutting entirely through the sections. Press the quarters apart and fill with chopped meat well seasoned. Pour around three cupfuls of tomato to which has been added one-fourth cupful of bread crumbs. Dot liberally with butter, sprinkle with crumbs and bake in a hot oven one-half hour.

Stewed Yellow Turnips.—Slice after paring a good-sized turnip. Boil until tender in water that has been salted the last half of the cooking. Drain, put in a saucepan and to each quart of turnip add one tablespoonful of butter or more, salt and pepper to season. Dust with a tablespoonful of flour, stir carefully and add one-fourth cupful of hot cream. Stir and simmer for five minutes, shaking occasionally. Serve in a hot dish.

Some Things to Avoid.

"It is the little leaks which sink a great ship." "A woman may throw out of the door in a spoon more than a man can bring in with a shovel." "Willful waste makes woeful want." All these old proverbs teach us the value of thrift and vigilance. Much of the housewife's waste is due to ignorance and not to indifference.

It is a striking fact that many of the best managers and most thrifty women are often lacking in the little things of kitchen lore.

How many, if the family is not large enough to consume a can of fruit, or pickles or vegetables will set them away and forget to use them.

A good broom should always be hung so that the straws are left straight and should never be used as a scrub brush. An old broom may be kept for such purposes.

Leaving tea, coffee and baking powder as well as spices and flavoring extracts uncovered is wasteful. All covers and corks should be returned to their respective places at once. Using silver knives and spoons in the kitchen is not good judgment. Cutting too much cake or bread and leaving it to dry, then throwing it away, also is wasteful. Bread can be used in countless ways as well as stale cake.

When breading chops or rolling fish in flour, do not use twice as much as is needed for the amount of meat, when a small amount will do.

Other wasteful practices:

Using aprons, dish towels and even hand towels for holders.

Turning on the light and leaving the room for ten or fifteen minutes. Using the power on the flatiron when not in use. Forgetting to turn out the gas or electricity when taking food from the range.

Letting soap lie in dishpan or scrub pail. Allowing milk to stand in a warm kitchen until sour, then throwing it out instead of using it for various dishes.

Leaving food in paper bags to attract mice. Allowing medicines or poisons to stand around where children may get to them.

Letting cheese get hard and lemons dry up.

Throwing damp linen down the clothes chute and forgetting to remove stains from it.

LIFE'S LITTLE JESTS

NOT GUILTY

He was a stage aspirant, and had contrived to gain an introduction to a well-known manager, who agreed to fix a date for a trial. This duly came off, and expectantly the aspirant awaited the verdict.

"What do you think of it?" he asked, after a deep silence.

"Well," replied the manager, slowly, "all I can say is that if ever you are put in prison for acting it will be a grave miscarriage of justice."

"Choate Did"

One of the stories about Joseph Choate, which is being retold with the passing of Charles F. Choate, runs something like this:

"I have never smoked a cigar in my life," said the first Mr. Choate. "I never play poker and I never saw a horse race."

Up spoke Senator Walcott of Colorado, "I wish I could say that!"

"You can; Choate did," piped up Speaker of the House Reed.

TOO NOISY FOR HIM

She—I never see you smoke a cigar with a band.

He—No, that would be too noisy for me.

Paradox

It's surely queer,
Yet oft' we've heard folk tell
Of getting sick
Because they lived too well.

Clever Work

"Are there any slick crooks in this city?"

"Slick! Why, one night at a dance they stole my trousers and hung weights on my suspenders so I shouldn't miss them until they had gone."

Forced Landing

"Confound it," cried a passenger who had been tumbled to the pavement. "Can't you wait till I get off?"

"Huh!" returned the street car motorman. "If you ain't off now, you never will be."

LOSING COLOR

Mother—Don't you think Mary is losing color?

Dad (grimly)—Yes; every time she has a caller I notice the loss.

Disappointment

How many perils men have braved
To learn that pleasures flit!
A man gets what his hopes have craved
And finds it isn't it.

Joking the Joke

"I'm thinking of going to Palm Beach for the winter."

"That will cost you a lot."

"No; only a little gray matter—thinking about it."

"Even so, can you spare it?"

A Financial Mystery

"My wife has queer ideas."

"As for example?"

"Well, she can't understand why a bank is so much fussier about her owing it than a department store is."

Early lambs may be marketed before any serious loss occurs from the worms.

Success in raising lambs depends on the kind of ewes in the flock. The ewes should be thrifty and good milkers.

Lambs born in January or February rather than later in the spring may be marketed when four or five months old at a season of the year when the market price for fat lambs is comparatively high.

National Park Pets Losing Fear of Man

The fearlessness and tameness of the animals of Yellowstone National park, much remarked upon by visitors during the summer, becomes even more marked in the winter. E. J. Sawyer, park naturalist, writes of the uncaged zoo that ranges past the window of his office at Mammoth Hot Springs during the snow-bound mountain winter. "An interesting wild life article could be written on observations made from this office in the Museum building. Elk and deer are familiar everyday sights; bears, until they go into hibernation, pass within a few yards every morning on their regular rounds; a coyote and badger are on the list. And now mountain sheep have lately been seen on the low hill a few hundred feet back of the weather bureau. For sheep to appear quite so close to the actual government buildings of Mammoth is unusual and it exemplifies the tendency noted during the last two years for large mammals of various species—notably moose, antelope and sheep—to become decidedly more neighborly with us; that is, to take the initiative in closer acquaintance."

Does Weakness Detract From Your Good Looks?

San Francisco, Calif.—"About two years ago I was weak and rundown in health. I suffered so much with backache and pain in my side, and did not get any relief until I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. A few bottles of the 'Prescription' was a permanent benefit to me and I am glad to recommend it to others for I believe it will do for them what it did for me."—Mrs. E. Webb, 1103 Laguna St.

A Shade of Hope

Doctor—Your husband is very ill—you can see that from his hands, which are purple.

Wife—But he is a painter.

Doctor—Ah, that might save him—If he hadn't been a painter there would have been no hope.

Clever

"Is she clever?"

"Too clever to let you know it."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Never Too Late

Cortlandt Bleecker nodded from a window of the Knickerbocker club toward a painted old lady with a golden bob who swaggered down Fifth avenue in very high-heeled slippers of snakeskin, flesh-colored silk stockings and a skirt that ended an inch or two above her knees.

"It is never too late to pretend," he said.

BOY SCOUT WEEK

Recently the eighteenth anniversary of the establishment of the Boy Scouts of America was celebrated by the Scouts and their friends throughout the country, the celebration being climaxed by an address over the radio by their national president, Walter W. Head of Omaha, and the repetition of the Scout oath and law by hundreds of thousands of Scouts in unison. Every Scout within reach of a receiving set had the opportunity of joining in this ceremony.

It is difficult to estimate or appreciate the tremendous influence of the Boy Scout movement, not only in America, but throughout the world. At the last compilation of statistics in 1927 there were 811,931 Scouts and officers in the United States alone, while the organization has spread to nearly every civilized country. Next to the United States, the greatest number of Scouts are found in England and in the countries of the British Commonwealth.

The Boy Scout movement as we know it was organized by Lieutenant-General Sir Robert Baden-Powell of England in 1908, and by Daniel Carter Beard and others in the United States in 1910, although similar organizations had existed in this country before that time.

Each year the week in which February 8 occurs is designated as Boy Scout week, and its observance is growing in proportion to the growth of the great organization, which now has troops in nearly every town of importance, as well as many rural communities.

The Boy Scout movement is civilization's answer to "the boy problem."

NEWSPAPER TALK

When one reads an unusual news story about somebody who proposes to perform an unheard-of feat, the item is often viewed with skepticism, and dismissed with a shrug of the shoulders as being "only newspaper talk." And more often than not that is all it amounts to.

Files of daily newspapers of February 5, 1927, contain such an item, which it is interesting to read again, in view of what really happened later. It is an Associated Press dispatch from St. Louis, in part as follows:

"A St. Louis to Paris airplane flight for the $25,000 Orteig prize is under contemplation by Captain Charles A. Lindbergh, chief pilot on the St. Louis-Chicago air mail route. Captain Lindbergh proposes to go alone, using a small plane. The flight to New York would be made in one day. The second leg of the trip, 3,200 miles, Lindbergh believes he can make in thirty-two hours."

Three and a half months later that dispatch was verified, except that it took the flyer an hour and a half longer than he had estimated. The unknown air mail pilot has become the most romantic and attractive figure in the world, and in the past nine months has made more "newspaper talk" than any other human being who ever lived.

WASHINGTON'S TASK

February 22 marked the one hundred and ninety-sixth anniversary of George Washington's birth, and the annual observance of that important date called forth the usual eulogies and discussions which serve to keep his memory fresh in the minds and hearts of his countrymen. But the ordinary birthday oration generally fails to bring out many of the striking features of Washington's truly remarkable career. His achievements are duly stressed, but the seemingly insurmountable obstacles which he had to meet are seldom given the attention they deserve, except possibly the story of Valley Forge.

It was Washington's lot to create an army out of most unpromising material; to supply and feed it from the most meager resources; to withstand the vicious attacks upon his policies and character by the infamous "Conway Cabal," which sought to depose him as commander-in-chief in favor of Gates, and to be hampered by antagonistic public clamor and the "impotence of the fugitive Congress."

His burdens were further increased by the difficulties of recruiting, the treachery of Lee at the battle of Monmouth, the treason of Benedict Arnold, a revolt by Pennsylvania troops at Morristown and by a part of the New Jersey contingent.

In spite of all these and many other trying conditions, Washington pressed on with grim determination until the arrival of aid from France in 1778 presaged final victory.

After independence had been won, fresh troubles arose through dissatisfaction among the unpaid troops which led them to form a plan to overthrow Congress and erect a new government, a plan that was sternly repressed by Washington. The breakdown of the government under the Articles of Confederation brought Washington from his retirement to take the lead in establishing a more stable system under our present Constitution and to serve as president for eight years, during which he faced violent opposition at various times.

The true measure of Washington's greatness, then, is not merely what he accomplished, but it involves also the almost insuperable obstacles which he overcame in its accomplishment. When these are known and understood, we may form a more adequate conception of his tremendous task.

"REMEMBER THE MAINE"

Thirty years ago America was stunned by the news of the battleship Maine's destruction in Havana harbor, which occurred on the night of February 15, 1928, with a loss of 266 officers and men. War between the United States and Spain, which had been imminent for some time, at once became inevitable, as the Spaniards in Havana were believed to have deliberately blown up the Maine, which was at the time on a friendly visit to that port.

During the war which began on April 19, the slogan of American soldiers and sailors was "Remember the Maine," a battle cry which spurred them on to deeds of valor at Manila and Santiago.

Just how the Maine was destroyed has never been known for a certainty, although a board of investigation found that it was blown up from the outside, and not by an internal explosion, as the Spanish contended. Some Spaniards declared that the vessel was sunk by Cubans, who knew that such an outrage would precipitate a war which would result in their freedom, but this theory was never given much credence.

However it really happened, it served to light the flames of the Spanish-American war, which forever ended Spain's rule on this hemisphere and drove her from the Philippines. Cuba is free, the Filipinos are humanely governed, while even Spain is perhaps better off that she was thirty years ago, when the flower of her young manhood was required to hold her far-flung colonies in subjection.

All the peoples whose destinies were changed by the war have every reason to "Remember the Maine."

BUILDING GOOD WILL AND TRADE RELATIONS

Never before was the United States so prominently in the limelight before foreign nations, in peaceful pursuits. Our national hero, Lindbergh, has gone down in history as the most popular, unassuming, nerviest and winning individual the world has ever seen. He has actually cemented friendships between our nation and European and South and Central American countries in a manner never dreamed of. Millions of people who never thought of us in a friendly or neighborly sense now have a feeling of acquaintanceship, due to the fact that our national hero has visited and talked with them.

From another angle, American business firms are extending this feeling of friendship. As an illustration, the McCormick Steamship Company is sending writers around South America by the way of Cape Horn and back through the Panama Canal. They will make all the ports of call with the ship and gather information and material to show the close trade relationship between the United States and South American countries. One of the writers, Albert Richard Wetjen, known nationally for his sea stories in book form and in magazines, hopes to gain inspiration for tales which will build up a spirit of interest and friendship for the American merchant marine and the indispensable part it plays in the trade and industrial development of the great South and North American continents.

It is friendly intercourse of this kind between nations which builds a lasting foundation of good will and trade relations.

A continued story has been running for twelve years in a Japanese newspaper. That beats our own Muscle Shoals serial by a year or so.

New, cheerful lighting — free trial in your home

The money you spend for one of these lamps does considerable to improve the appearance of your furnishings.

For the abundance of soft, colorful light makes an "interior" seem lovelier. It's just like redecorating the whole room.

There is a reflector under the silk shade that distributes the light over the entire room. This is the new principle of design that combines beauty with good lighting and eliminates harmful glare and gloom.

The lamps have a base finished in silver or gold and there is a selection of four silk shades. Phone and ask our representative to place one of these lamps in your home for a three-day trial.

GIANNINI FOUNDATION ACCEPTED BY REGENTS

Formal tender of a gift of a million and a half dollars, to be devoted to the study of agricultural economics, has been made to the regents of the University of California by Bancitaly Corporation, "in tribute to A. P. Giannini of San Francisco and to be named after him." The offer was accepted by the board at its regular monthly meeting, one-third of the gift to be used for the construction of a building for the College of Agriculture, to house the works of the Giannini Foundation, and $1,000,000 to be used as an endowment for the Foundation.

The offer stipulates that "there shall be established in the University of California the Giannini Foundation of Agricultural Economics," and describes the work of such Foundation as follows:

"The activities of this Foundation shall be embraced by the great field of agricultural economics, and relate to such subjects as: (a) the economic importance of increased production which shall result from improved seed grains, nursery stock, improved livestock, improved machinery and improved methods of farming; (b) the economic consequences of over-production arising from unusually favorable seasons or unusually unfavorable seasons as to weather and other conditions in the producing nations; (c) the relations between conditions existing in the farming industry and the general economic conditions prevailing in the nation and internationally; (d) the acquiring of such knowledge concerning soil qualities and climatic and other conditions in any or all parts of the state of California, and of such knowledge concerning existing or prospective supply and demand conditions for the various agricultural products of this state as will enable the appropriate representatives of the Foundation to advise the farmers of California as to wise plantings, sowings, breedings, etc., in relation to areas and kinds; (e) the methods and problems of disposing of farm products on terms and conditions giving maximum degree of satisfaction to the producers; (f) any economic questions which concern the individual farmer and the members of his family, and affect their living conditions, and so on.'"

The offer says that: "However, it should be understood that the activities of the Foundation are to be regarded as chiefly (a) those of research, with purpose to find the facts and conditions which will promise or threaten to affect the economic status of California agriculturists, and (b)those of formulating ways and means of enabling the agriculturists of California to proft from the existence of favorable facts and conditions, and protect themselves as well as possible from adverse facts and conditions. Teaching activities will undoubtedly be called for, certainly to prepare promising students to assist in carrying on the work of the Foundation, and also for service in wider spheres; but it is understood that said teaching will be conducted largely and, if practicable, wholly upon the basis of funds made available to the College of Agriculture from other sources."

The offer of the gift was accompanied by a check for $25,000, this to be followed by another for $475,000 within two months, and the remaining $1,000,000 to be made available as it is needed.

NATIONAL AUTO COMPANY DISPLAYS THE NEW ESSEX

The first of the new Essex Super-Six cars have arrived in Colma and are now on display at the National Auto Company, Hudson and Essex distributors.

Since Essex was introduced the first of the year, the demand for the car has been continuously ahead of the number which could be manufactured, notwithstanding the largest schedule of cars in Essex history. Most companies would have been content with such remarkable business, but the Hudson-Essex organization decided both to improve the Essex still further and to enlarge the production facilities. To accomplish this Essex manufacturing was suspended while there were actually thousands of buyers waiting for cars—a drastic action which gave full right-of-way to the improved models. These are now being shipped at the highest rate by far in Hudson-Essex history.

"The improvement in the new Essex," says Mr. Bertini of the National Auto Company, "affect both its performing ability and appearance. The motor is improved in detail and enlarged in displacement. This is accomplished by adding one-quarter inch to the stroke. The crakshaft is larger and heavier, the connecting rods redesigned, and the bearings enlarged to care for the additional power loads.

"Experimental runs in the new Essex have shown it capable of higher speed and improved performance. It is a high class car in every respect."

The residents of Colma and vicinity are invited to call at the show rooms of the National Auto Company and get acquainted with the new Essex.

ARE YOU A LAWBREAKER?

Two negroes were recently speaking about the legislature of their state, which was about to open. One asked the other what it was going to do, and upon being told that it was going to pass more laws, inquired why, in view of the fact that it had passed several hundred laws the year before. To this inquiry the other negro unconsciously made a very pertinent reply when he said they had to pass the new laws because the old ones were "broke."

With the tens of thousands of laws passed every year covering all sorts of trivial and personal matters affecting the liberties and actions of the individual in his home, on the street and while traveling, it is difficult not to break the laws.

We are today passing law after law which makes it unlawful to do an act which the mere doing of, in itself, is not morally unlawful. Such laws are hard to enforce and more people become lawbreakers, feeling that they are not actually doing anything wrong.

To cite typical examples: A state traffic law says it is unlawful to travel more than 30 miles an hour on a state highway. A driver on a country road with nobody in sight goes 35 miles an hour. He is a lawbreaker. As a matter of fact, he is doing no harm and can see no reason for obeying the law if he can evade the "speed cop." Another state law says that a man shall not own a pistol or revolver without presenting himself to the police and giving a complete record of himself for future reference.

Countless similar instances could be cited. Every new law which is not fundamentally sound, makes thousands and hundreds of thousands of lawbreakers. Is it any wonder courts are jammed and the problems of law enforcement becomes more critical?

The situation offers a logical answer—stop passing new laws, repeal thousands of useless laws now on our statute books and enforce fundemental laws which have an actual bearing on property rights, crime and the protection of the nation.

Four men formed a human chain and rescued Lawrence Herrick from the icy waters of a creek near Niagara Falls.

THOUSANDS ENJOY "TITANIA'S PALACE"

The "good fairies" let themselves in for a real job when they came to San Francisco to assist in child welfare work.

During the past week they have been forced to work day and night to keep up with the demands of the people of Northern California wishing to see "Titania's Palace," being shown at the Emporium for the benefit of the American Legion Auxiliary's child welfare program.

And they'll have to work overtime, too, for the Auxiliary and Sir Nevile Wilkinson, the Irish knight who created the wonderful miniature palace, have decided to hold the exhibit one more week. But that will be final. After the closing on Saturday night, March 10, the trained workers who accompany the palace on its journeys will begin dismantling it for removal to fulfill its scheduled showing for a Los Angeles child charity.

This is the final opportunity to see the little palace which has become world famous, and represents more than twenty years' work by Sir Nevile. After its showing in San Francisco and Los Angeles it will leave California, and after completing its present tour, it is to be presented to the British Museum, as the world's outstanding example of the most exquisite tinicraft in the world, representing masterpieces on a minute scale, from every land and age. There is an enameled horse from a tomb adjoining King Tut's, Roman tear bottles 3,000 years old also are included. And there is a bit of bone from a Colorado mastodon that is older by ages than anything else in the palace. "Titani's Palace" is open to the public from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.

MAY TELEPHONE TO SWEDEN

Transatlantic telephone service has been extended from all of the United States and Cuba to Stockholm, Sweden. Sweden is the fourth continental nation to be added to the list of foreign nations now available to American business and residence telephones. Stockholm, the capital of Sweden, with a population of approximately 397,000, has about 116,000 telephones. With the extension of the transatlantic service to Sweden, the total of European telephones available to the American caller will be more than two and a half million.

CALIFORNIA NEWS BRIEFS

A list of gifts totalling $13,000 in cash or material of estimable value, and many other gifts whose value cannot readily be quoted, were accepted by the Board of Regents of the University of California at their annual meeting on the campus of the University at Los Angeles, Tuesday morning, February 14.

At a mass meeting of large landholders at Murphy's, Calaveras county, last week agreement was reached to establish a 40,000 game refuge in Calaveras and Toulumne counties including part of Stanislaus National Forest. Boundaries will be fixed within two weeks and the project placed before the State Fish and Game Commissioner and the Legislature. It will be asked that the refuge be closed for ten years.

California headquarters af the American Legion has just received the silver trophy given by the late Frederic W. Galbraith, Jr., national commander at the time of his death, to the state recording the greatest number of "man-miles" in attendance at the national legion convention. California chalked up 7,700,000 "man-miles" in sending 1,136 delegates to the Paris convention last fall. The Galbraith cup, a permanent trophy, also came to California in 1923.

The California Newspaper Publishers' Association will hold its annual convention in 1929 in Sacramento Word that the association has accepted the invitation of the Sacramento Tourist and Convention Bureau to hold its next session at Sacramento was contained in a telegram received by L. W. Hayes, manager of the convention bureau. The newspaper publishers' association will meet at Sacramento in January with approximately 400 publishers from all parts of the state in attendance.

Should laws excluding Mexican labor from the United States be enacted by Congress, 20,000 negroes from the Southern States will come to California immediately to work in fields and orchards at $1 a day. Information to this effect was received last week by the Agricultural Labor Bureau of the San Joaquin Valley, according to announcement from the California Development Association.

The hand of the law was laid upon a grand total of 135,000 California motorists during 1927, they being fined, jailed or otherwise punished for violations of the State motor vehicle act. The State motor vehicle department announces that actual reports on violations filed with the department number 85,000. It is estimated there are at least 50,000 additional violations which judges of California have failed to report.

Agricultural interests in the San Bernardino Valley are evidencing interest in the first intensive reforestation program ever attempted in the San Bernardino mountains, during which 15,000 young pines will be transplanted along the Rim-of-the-World this month. The trees will be planted under direction of S. A. Nash-Boulden, Supervisor of the San Bernardino National Forest, and County Forester Roy M. Tuttle, in territory burned over in 1922.

With several plans of proceedure suggested for Federal acquisition of private timber lands inside the Yosemite National Park, Governor C. C. Young, it was announced last week, has been asked to use his influence in preventing any action which will tend to reduce the size of the park. Approximately 4,000 acres are said to be privately owned within the park, and it is generally agreed that these lands should be obtained by the government, according to Charles A. Whitmore, the governor's private secretary, who characterizes private holdings inside national parks as "a thorn in the side of park administration."

San Francisco and Los Angeles counties will receive more than one-third of the 1927 State motor vehicle fees for use in maintenance of county highways, it was announced a few days ago by the State Division of Motor Vehicles. Los Angeles will receive $1,500,610.12 on the basis of vehicle registrations for the last year the announcement said, and $298,660.12 will go to San Francisco. The state law provides that half the total motor vehicle fees shall go to the State Highway Commission and half to the county government for highway upkeep and repair. The announcement stated that Los Angeles registered 689,902 vehicles during 1927, an increase of 42,995 over the previous year. San Francisco registered 135,729 against 7,489. Though complete state totals are not yet available it was stated Alameda county will receive an apportionment of $269,254,13, on 126,101 vehicle registrations.

The Lassen Volcanic National Park ultimately is to become the tourist mecca of northern California is the prediction made at Sacramento following announcement that Congressman H. L. Engelbright had succeeded in getting into the new national park program an appropriation of $521,000. This amount is for completion of the present loop road now under construction and for construction of a road from the Werner valley entrance to some point on the main loop road between Summit lake and lower Kings Creek Meadows

"It's worth a moment of the keenest happiness mortals can know! Divine happiness! Isn't that enough?"

"'Divine'? I thought that there word meant somepin else—I thought it belonged to Jesus—"

"A divine moment, Meely, such as few ever know in the stereotyped marriage relation, my girl, believe me!"

"It ain't that I expec' you to marry me, Mr. Creighton—I know I can't rise to that. But if I can't rise to that, I can't fall to nothin' else between you and me, neither!"

The earnestness of her resistance was beginning to alarm him. Surely she did not mean all she was saying! She only wanted to be coaxed, persuaded. Surely it only needed a little patience on his part to bring her to the yielding point? But patience was a thing he was so unused to exercising that it taxed his nerves and his temper almost more than he could bear. The little hussy must be very experienced, she knew so well how to enhance her own value and stimulate his desire by her stand-offishness!

"Think, Meely, how stupid it is not to seize every chance that comes our way (few enough they are!) for happiness! Look at all the colorless years ahead of you, and don't miss this one ineffable hour!—such as will never be offered you once you're married!"

"Will your marriage hold you from any more such hours?"

"That's neither here nor there—my marriage, Meely, is quite another affair—"

"Meanin' it ain't none of my affairs? Well, but it's the affair of your wife, anyhow, whether you have any such grand hours—"

"My dear, we won't discuss my possible wife!"

"I'd feel awful sorry," said Meely, slowly shaking her head, "for your wife, Mr. Creighton."

He laughed uneasily. "Judging by the way I'm pursued by marriageable girls, Meely, your view of me as a husband can't possibly be the one generally held by many ladies of high degree! You don't know your luck, my girl!"

"Yes, well, but them 'ladies of high degree' run after you to marry you. You ain't astin' me to marry you."

"I'm offering you a love such as I shall probably never feel for the girl I marry! Oh, Meely!" He reached for her hand, but she drew it away.

"Meely! You'll lose me, you know, if you keep this up! You can't keep me dangling forever, you know!" The words, "keep me dangling," startled his own ears, so ridiculous was the idea of a girl such as Meely keeping him "dangling"! "If you do lose me, you'll only have yourself to thank!"

"What would I be losin' in losin' you?" she asked as one humbly seeking information.

"You'd be losing happiness, wouldn't you, my dear?"

"Happiness! Would I keep happiness—and you—by doing what you want? It's put out that you're going to marry your cousin—a grand lady with such a title or what. After you've got her, where would I come in?"

Ah, thought St. Croix, light dawning on his troubled mind, so it was that that was holding her back!—she had heard of his betrothal and was jealous!

"I give you my word, Meely, that I am not—as yet—engaged."

"I heard you was," she repeated stubbornly. "What would that cousin think of you if she knowed—about me?"

"That need not worry you!"

"Oh, needn't it!"

"Why should it? I have not seen this cousin since we were both children—and I am not—definitely—betrothed to her."

"But you're plannin' to be."

"Well, surely, my dear girl, it will hurt you far less if I marry some one I don't love—some one I don't really know—a person I've not seen since she was a homely little bow-legged kid!"

"'Bow-legged'!" exclaimed Meely indignantly.

"Yes, and pigeon-toed and towheaded and freckle-faced! You'll not be hurt by my marriage," he exclaimed fervently, "you beautiful thing!"

"Yes, well, but how about hurtin' her! When you even love another one!"

"She'll be doing the same thing, probably!" he defended himself. "It's purely a family arrangement," he answered, frowning impatiently at being forced into a discussion of his personal affairs; to his peculiar ideas of fitness it was a desecration to even so much as name his cousin—his future wife, no doubt—to a girl like Meely Schwenckton.

"Are you so sure she'll be willin' to marry you without lovin' you and without your lovin' her?" Meely asked wonderingly.

Nothing could have been more distasteful to him than answering such a question; dwelling at such length on this unseemly topic. But if to win her over he must pay that price, then pay it he would.

"Look here, Meely, perhaps I owe it to you to explain the situation to you. Lady Sylvia St. Croix will marry me because her family needs money—their estate, since the war, is gone to punk and my father will restore it and supply the income to keep it up. I will marry her because I shall enjoy the prestige in England which the marriage will give to me—and my children. So you see how entirely outside of my marriage will be my relation with you—how little it can affect it—"

"Well!" Meely severely pronounced judgment. "I may not be such a high aristocrat, but I'd be above such a low-down wicked marriage like that! There's better things to marry for and live for than savin' an old estate!"

"Oh, come, my dear, you've no least cause for jealousy of my cousin, I—"

Meely sprang up to elude his movement to seize her again in his arms.

Before He Could Lay a Finger on Her to Stop Her, She Had Turned and Fled.

"It's time I got home—Pop will be missin' me."

He sprang up too—his face almost purple with the strain of his self-restraint—but the look in her eyes halted him. One step toward her, her eyes said to him, and she would shriek to arouse the countryside.

"Meely," he exclaimed huskily, "what do you mean? Why, if you don't love me, have you led me on all these weeks? Why have you come here to meet me? Why? Tell me that—why?"

"To find out," she answered in an even tone, "what sort of a man you are. And," she added with a smile that pitied him, "I have found out!"

Before he could lay a finger on her to stop her, she had turned and fled.

By the time he had recovered from the bewildering shock of her words, her tone, she was far down the hill—too far for him to overtake her—even if he had not realized, to his stunned amazement, the absolute uselessness of overtaking her.

That he had been repudiated by this girl who for nearly three months had let him treat her contemptuously, had submitted to his bullying, his rudeness, his irritability, had accepted and returned his lavish caresses! All the way down the hill and along the highway toward the spot near the schoolhouse, where today he had parked his car, he stared incredulously at the amazing fact.

But a scene that met his bewildered gaze when he was about to get into his car, parked near the schoolhouse, did not decrease his mental confusion, nor serve to soothe his rasped nerves and outraged vanity.

Marvin Creighton, approaching William Penn schoolhouse at half-past five that afternoon, on his way to his temporary home at Absalom Puntz' cottage, noticed on the road far ahead of him a slim girlish figure in a long loose coat, hurrying along the highway. Though the daylight was fading, her carriage of herself and the set of her clothing were so conspicuously different from that of any country girl one was apt to meet alone on the road at this hour that even in this dimness that hurrying figure was sharply impressive.

Curiosity made him quicken his pace to catch up with her. But before he had overtaken her, she had arrived at William Penn schoolhouse, where, to his surprise, she stopped and went in.

Then it was, as he had half suspected, half hoped, a little dreaded, Miss Schwenckton!

A few yards before he reached the school he came upon a roadster, parked along the road, which he recognized as his brother's. The idea stabbed him that this attractive young teacher and St. Croix might be having a rendezvous in the school! Was St. Croix in there with her now? He was such a philanderer—sometimes so unscrupulous—the girl ought to be put on her guard.

"But darned if I want to be the one to warn her! And if ever a girl seemed capable of looking out for herself, she's it!"

In a minute he was at the schoolhouse door. It was slightly ajar; he pushed it open a bit wider and, not entering, glanced in. The sight that met his eye made him draw back precipitately—Miss Schwenckton, her back toward the door, was standing on her platform disrobing! She had already taken off her coat and frock, her white shoulders bared—

There was no one else in the school room, yet—

Marvin stumbled back a pace from the door. But though the thought that pierced him made him call himself "a cad," yet as he stood there wondering whether he should knock, he felt cold all over; and even while he hesitated, in what seemed to him an incredibly short time, she suddenly appeared before him in the doorway clad in a jacket suit and a jaunty sports hat! He was so taken aback, so utterly confused, that he could not move or speak, but stood as stock-still as the wooden posts of the school porch.

At sight of a man standing motionless at her door in the gathering gloom, she cried out in alarm—which brought him to himself.

"Don't be frightened! It's only—your superintendent!"

She gave a little gasp of relief. "Only! And of whom, pray, should I be more frightened?—though the schoolroom being empty just now, of course you can't bully me into teaching geography for your entertainment—my good luck!"

"Going home now?"

"Yes."

"Then"—he took from her hand the big door-key and the books she had in her arms—"may I walk with you?"

When he had locked the school door, he glanced up the road to the waiting car. Its lights had been turned on, illuminating the road over a wide area, and he saw that his brother, standing in front of his car, was witnessing his coming out of the schoolhouse with Miss Schwenckton. She, he observed, was viewing with a frank surprise the lighted car and its owner a few rods away. That look of surprise seemed so genuine, it was hard to believe that his own unexpected arrival at the school had foiled a meeting between these two. And yet it would be so like St. Croix to seek a furtive love affair with a charming girl like Miss Schwenckton when he'd die before he would openly associate with anyone of a class outside his own!—like a parvenu uncertain of his position, rather than like a man born to a secure place in the sun! But that a girl of Miss Schwenckton's spirit should accept such cowardly attentions seemed incredible. And this mystery of her changing her clothing in the schoolroom!—

As they turned their backs on the car and went on their way, neither of them referred to it—though Meely was so absorbed in wondering whether St. Croix had recognized her that her sense of Marvin's interesting companionship was less keen than it would otherwise have been.

"Does your work always detain you so late as this at your school?" he asked with subtle guile. She didn't know he had seen her coming along the highway!

Brother of Tecumseh Neglected by History

Elkswatawa, younger brother of Tecumseh, was largely responsible for the part that great Indian warrior and statesman played in organizing a federation of the red men to oppose the encroachments of the whites. In 1805 Elkswatawa proclaimed himself a religious leader and began to arouse the tribes of Indiana, Ohio and Illinois, to the great disturbance of the settlers. His doctrines were not primarily revolutionary, but temperance and total abstinence were tenets, together with reverence for old age and sympathy for the infirm. He also urged his people to resist intermarriage and to preserve their own customs and costumes. This being in line with what all Indians had held as ideal previous to Caucasian invasion his preaching caused much excitement among the tribes and fear among the whites. It was the response of the Indians to his brother's pleading that started Tecumseh on his mission in the cause of federation which took him to the Cherokees and the other more civilized tribes of the South, in the course of which he covered many thousand miles.

AMERICAN CHANCES BEST FOR SPRINTS

Coach Names Four Stars for Short Runs.

Eddie Farrell, Harvard track coach and member of the 1924 American Olympic coaching staff, believes that America's sprinters will provide the United States with the best chances for winning track events at this year's Olympics in Amsterdam. He bases his opinion on comparative times turned in during the last year or so by the leading sprinters of the world.

Of the European stars, Anderson of Norway; Sjostrom, Sweden; Bomer, Switzerland; Huben and Kornig of Germany, and Larento of Spain have all done better than an official 10.8 seconds for 100 meters.

"America's best bets over the short distance are Charlie Borah of southern California, Chet Bowman, A. C. Locke and Al Miller," Farrell said. "Miller, by the way, has done :09.9 for the 100 and ought to be a real threat."

Charlie Paddock, the veteran California speed merchant, has passed his crest, Farrell thinks, and will be hard put to regain his form of eight years ago.

In the 200-meter event, Farrell's leading European choices for the 100-meter dash will be augmented by Peterson of Sweden and Svenjach of Poland, all of whom have been clocked in 22 seconds or better. Borah and Locke are considered the pick of the American sprinters for the longer distance, with Alderman of Michigan Aggies labeled as "some one to watch."

Young Stribling Plans to Battle All Comers

"Pa" and "Ma" Stribling are back in the boxing game.

It was "Pa" and "Ma" traveling with Young Stribling in an auto-house car that gave the young man much of his prominence in the fistic world.

Last year William, Jr., was under the watchful eye of Walk Miller, manager of a string of boxers, but the contract expired the first of the year and once more "Pa" Stribling assumed charge.

This time it will be the Airplane Special, carrying the trio from place to place, and the air pilot will be none other than Young Stribling himself.

It will be the first time in history that a boxer has traveled from place to place with his family by airplane.

Stribling intends to meet all comers during his tour about the country, both light heavies and heavyweights.

Tommy Loughran's Title Secure, He'll Forget It

Tommy Loughran will forget about the ring for a while now that he has disposed of all of the outstanding challengers for the light heavyweight title. He leaves for a few months' vacation in South America.

"I've done enough fighting now and I don't want to think about the ring for a few months," he said. "When another fellow comes along I'll be ready and willing to give him a bout."

Loughran is undecided about entering the heavyweight division and trying to get a bout with Gene Tunney.

Indispensable Gridder

Golfer Catches Worm and Forfeits Stroke

A golf ball which caught an early worm brought about all kinds of complications in English golf circles.

H. C. Shaw, out one morning almost before the dew was off the putting greens, removed the early worm from its pose on his golf ball.

The act was referred to the rules of golf committee of the Royal and Ancient Club of St. Andrews, which ruled that Mr. Shaw had penalized himself to the extent of one stroke by touching the ball before putting.

Do Something

When I was graduated from college, I attended a college society meeting at which Jack Siddal, then editor of the American Magazine, was present. He learned something of my plans.

"Did you ever hear the Arabian myth of the thousand handled cup?' he asked. "No," I replied.

"There is a thousand handled cup called success," he said. "Any handle will lift the cup, but it's important to get hold of one of them. Boiled down to everyday language, it doesn't make so much difference what you do in life, but for your own salvation do something."—Thrift Magazine.

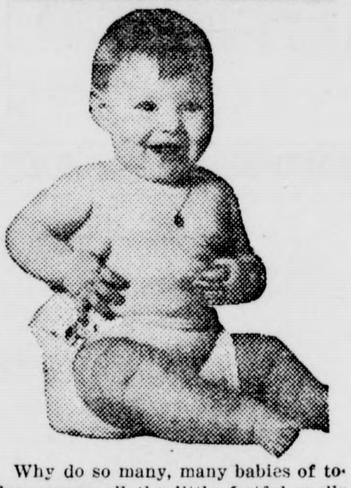
The BABY



Why do so many, many babies of today escape all the little fretful spells and infantile ailments that used to worry mothers through the day, and keep them up half the night?

If you don't know the answer, you haven't discovered pure, harmless Castoria. It is sweet to the taste, and sweet in the little stomach. And its gentle influence seems felt all through the tiny system. Not even a distasteful dose of castor oil does so much good.

Fletcher's Castoria is purely vegetable, so you may give it freely, at first sign of colic; or constipation; or diarrhea. Or those many times when you just don't know what is the matter. For real sickness, call the doctor, always. At other times, a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria.

The doctor often tells you to do just that; and always says Fletcher's. Other preparations may be just as pure, just as free from dangerous drugs, but why experiment? Besides, the book on care and feeding of babies that comes with Fletcher's Castoria is worth its weight in gold!

SALES SENSE SUGGESTS

TELEPHONE Convenience—

Calls to customers off the beaten path bring business and good will, save time and expense.

The thoughtful call between trips keeps fresh that personal contact of salesman and customer.

The occasional call from the sales manager or other executive of "the house" emphasizes the value of that customer's account.

Checking deliveries, tracing shipments, adjusting complaints, or in fact anything that can be done in person can be done better by telephone—because it's quicker and costs less.

The many new and practical uses of telephone service as a business tool will be cheerfully discussed with you upon application to the business office of the telephone company.

DALY CITY LIONS CLUB

WILL SPEND MILLIONS FOR IMPROVEMENTS

The Pacific Gas and Electric Company's construction and maintenance budget for 1928 for additions and betterments to plants involves expenditures in excess of $22,500,000. Of the major activities is the Mokelumne river development, involving the building of the world's largest rock filled dam, 1,300 feet long and 300 feet high, across the Mokelumne river, 50 miles above Jackson, which is the firts unit of a project for the development of a 12,000 horsepower generating plant at Salt Springs and a great power plant of 72,000 horsepower on Tiger Creek. Through these new developments additional water will also be provided, making possible the enlargement of the Electra power house near Jackson, Amador county.

In Placer and Nevada counties additions to the Spaulding-Drum developments will be completed, involving the erection of the Spaulding No. 3 plant, a 10,000 horsepower unit on Lake Spaulding; the replacing of temporary structures and relining of the Drum canal, providing increased water capacities; the installation of a penstock and a fourth generating unit of 20,000 horsepower capacity at the Drum plant near Colfax, which will bring this plant up to an installed capacity of 70,000 horsepower.

In the East Bay territory work will continue on the enlargement of the company's electric steam plant in Oakland, where a new 50,000 horsepower steam electric turbine is being installed.

Among the principal activities in the gas department will be: The laying of a 16-inch high pressure main from San Francisco to San Bruno; additional gas generating equipment at Vallejo; additions to the San Rafael gas plant; the laying of 28 miles of high pressure gas main from a point on the Marysville-Oroville line to Chico; additional equipment for the Grass Valley plant; rebuilding of part of the Stockton gas plant, and the installation of added facilities at Monterey.

In addition to these major items, other provisions in the budget provide for substation construction and enlargements, additions to transmission and distribtuion lines, and increased service facilities in each of the company's thirteen divisons served in Northern California.

NATURALIZATION LAW FOR WAR VETERANS

Special naturalization privileges accorded aliens who served with the armed forces of the United States during the World war will be again extended for a period of three years if favorable action is taken by Congress on a bill recently introduced in House of Representatives, according to State Adjutant James K. Fisk of the American Legion.

"Under the provisions of this measure," says Fisk, "World war veterans of foreign birth would be relieved of complying with the usual residence requirements and could obtain citizenship papers immediately upon the proper identification, provided their service during the war was honorable. This would be the third extension of the measure. The present extension expired May 26, 1927."

REDUCTION IN RATES TO GAS CONSUMERS

Gas consumers located along the peninsula in the San Jose division of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company will receive a substantial reduction in gas rates when new schedules become effective February 27, according to John D. Kuster, manager of the San Jose division, who states:

"New rates will result in a saving of about $100,000 per year in gas bills of the consumers throughout the San Jose division. This reduction is made possible through a small reduction in the price of fuel oil from which gas is manufactured, supplemented by the voluntary reduction on the part of the company. Heretofore the outlying territories where gas mains were extended were sparsely settled, resulting in a small amount of gas being sold with a high delivery cost. With the recent growth of business in these areas and the evident expansion of the territory, the company has applied its lower rate schedules as an inducement to further usage of gas."

RECORD ROAD SHOW TO BE HELD MARCH 7

Records for road shows in the United States are expected to be shattered when the Western Road and Equipment Exposition is opened in Los Angeles March 7 next. An unprecedented rush for space followed announcement of this third annual Pacific Coast display, and four weeks before the opening date 125,000 square feet of exhibit space had been reserved. By the time the exposition opens, it is expected that approximately 200,000 feet of space will have been reserved, which will mean the largest display of the kind ever held in the United States.

An unusual feature of the exposition will be that for the first time it will bring the annual gathering of western contractors, engineers, equipment distributors, supervisors and others together in the same city.

A QUESTIONABLE SAFETY MEASURE

Commenting on the compulsory automobile liability insurance law which has been in effect in Massachusetts for a year, the Standard, published in Boston, quotes a public official as saying:

"Thousands make claims for personal injuries when they are not injured at all." Also, "thousands of occupants of automobiles involved in slight accidents claim personal injuries in order to club insurance companies into paying property damages."

The Standard continues: "According to these statements and facts apparent to insurance companies, the new law is making perjurers and blackmailers. The 'hit-and-run' driver has been developed by the fear not only of prosecution but of the loss of registration and license for his car. The greatly increased number of acknowledged illegal claims for personal injury are throwing suspicion upon legitimate claims."

There were twelve less deaths from motor accidents in Massachusetts in 1927 than in 1926, but there were 6,895 fewer cars registered. Figured on a basis proportionte to the number of cars, the deaths for 1927 were practically the same as for 1926.

Injuries jumped from 25,351 in 1926 an 31,721 in 1927. The increase in injuries recorded is undoubtedly due to the tendency for every person having a "scratch" to try to collect damages. These figures do not tend to show that compulsory insurance is a safety measure. Undoubetdly other states, striving for accident reduction rather than damage collection, and which have no complsory insurance laws, will show actual death and accident reductions for 1927 compared with 1926.

Judging by what is happening in England, a fruitful source of future civil wars may be seen in attempts to revise the prayer books.

SUMMONS TO ESTABLISH TITLE

Action No. 13876.

In the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of San Mateo.

Matthew C. Callan, Plaintiff, vs. All persons claiming any interest in, or lien upon, the real property herein described or any part thereof, defendants.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA:

To all persons claiming any interest in, or lien upon, the real property herein described or any part thereof, defendants, greeting:

You are hereby notified to appear and answer the complaint of Matthew C. Callan, plaintiff, filed with the Clerk of the above entitled Court and County, within three months after the first publication of this Summons, and to set forth what interest or lien, if any, you have in or upon that certain real property or any part thereof, situated in the County of San Mateo, State of California, particularly described as follows:

All of Lots 1 and 4 of West End Homestead Association as per map thereof filed in the office of the Recorder of the City and County of San Francisco, State of California, March 26, 1863, and recorded in Book "C" and "D" of Maps, at page 63, and also as per map entitled "Map of the Property of the West End Homestead Association", filed for record in the office of the Recorder of the County of San Mateo, State of California, on January 25, 1865, in Liber 4 of Deeds, at page 415.

And you are hereby notified that, unless you so appear and answer, the plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the complaint, to-wit: That it be adjudged that the plaintiff is the owner of said property in fee simple absolute; that his title to said property be established and quieted; that the Court ascertain and determine all estates, rights, titles, interests and claims in and to said property, and every part thereof, whether the same be legal or equitable, present or future, vested or contingent, and whether the same consists of mortgages or liens of any description; that plaintiff recover his costs herein and have such other and further relief as may be meet in the premises.

Witness my hand and the seal of this Court.

Dated December 23, 1927.

(SEAL.)

ELIZABETH M. KNEESE, Clerk.

VOLUME I FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 1928 NUMBER 30

Published in the interests of the People of Daly City and vicinity by H. H. Smith and Employees.

Who can't be roused to anger is a fool,
But he's an ass who lets his anger rule.

A rented house is never quite a home. To the outsider it may have all the earmarks but it falls short in the one great respect. You can never say or feel: "It's all my own."

Artist (to friend): "See that picture over there? Well, I painted it, and a million wouldn't buy it."

Friend: "Well, I'm one of the million."

Sonny: "Must I sleep in the dark?"

Mother: "Yes."

Sonny: "Oh, then, let me say my prayers over again — more carefully."

If what you want
is what you can not gain,
Learn to desire
what you do obtain.

Keep your pride in your home. Repair and improve and you will find every cent put into it is money well invested.

Boy Friend: "We're coming to a tunnel. Are you afraid?"

Modern Miss: "Not if you take that cigar out of your mouth."

"Too bad Shakespeare wasn't born in London."

"Why so?"

"I said he was, on that exam."

"So Jonesy finally married his stenographer?"

"Yes, she felt that he had dictated to her long enough!"

Footpad: "Get ready to die. I'm going to shoot you."

Victim: "Why?"

Footpad: "I've always said I'd shoot anyone who looked like me."

Victim: "Do I look like you?"

Footpad: "Yes."

Victim: "Shoot."

Paint is the skin of any building constructed of wood. A skinned building is no more healthy than a skinned human.

He: "You look like a sensible girl. Let's get married."

"Nothing doing. I'm just as sensible as I look."
